About Me: Multi-Tasking Comedic Script Writer

I have been writing for stage and screen for several years, and have performed in several of the shows, commercials, and videos that I have produced. As a Second City Conservatory alum, my stage productions have been seen by large audiences in Chicago. I enjoy writing poetry, short stories, and my first fantasy novel, which I am currently preparing for print. No matter the subject, I write what inspires me, as long as there is emotion there. My work is known for being dark, risky, and absurd. I am currently working as a full time writer, actor, and comedian.

Press:

I have been a featured guest several times on WGN Radio as a writer, producer and comedian.. I have had a featured article in Chicago Newspaper South Side Weekly for my writing and performing. (All press links on my website).

Other:

Before I became a successful actor and writer, my fallback career was Hypnotherapy. The subconscious mind and the way in which different brains process information frequently shows up in my writing. I am skilled at baking bread. I find horses terrifying for many reasons. I raised chickens for eggs when I was married and lived in the suburbs for 8 years. I am slightly obsessed with video games - the older, the better.
